Description

The GP1800R SVHO is the world's #1 race ski and this dominance is set to continue on the the race circuit and waterways in 2022.

We have worked with the world's leading pros to take the GP1800R to the next level, including race ready tilt-adjustable exposed handle bars, race designed intake grate and jet pump for enhanced acceleration and a narrow seat profile for improved rider knee grip and ergonomics.

This craft not only looks muscular but has the performance characteristics to suit. The 2022 GP1800R SVHO comes with an industry-first automatic trim system with Cornering Control and Launch Control, bringing new levels of handling and performance to racers and recreational riders alike. When engaged, Cornering Control automatically shifts the trim into the bow down position when decelerating for tighter cornering and a racy feel. Launch Control automatically shifts the trim down to prevent bow rise when accelerating quickly.

Combine this with Yamaha's patented NanoXcel2 hull, the 2022 GP1800R SVHO delivers an extremely nimble, agile and racy ride.

New for 2022 is the introduction of built-in 4.3 inch Bluetooth enabled marines speakers and the choice of two model colours - cyan or black with stealth grey.

GP1800R History

Since its original release in 2017, the Yamaha GP1800R SVHO has completely dominated the Australian and World Pro Stock race scene. Pro Stock racing, also known as the 'Manufacturers Class', provides the best comparison of out-of-the-box performance of each manufacturers race ski offerings. From short course to long distance offshore endurance racing, no other watercraft model has achieved as many victories as the GP1800R SVHO over the last four years.

The results speak for themselves, since its inception, the GP1800R SVHO has won:

Australian Results

- 2017 & 2018 Australian Champion – Pro Am Stock 'Closed Course'
- 2017, 2018 & 2019 Australian Champion – Pro Am Stock 'Enduro'
- 2019 Australian Champion Pro Am Stock 'Closed Course'
- No racing in 2020 due to COVID

International Results
